Court also publicized proposed rules of practice before the Commission.

WCCO and its co-petitioners support the Court's intention to appoint a Commission to study their petition. This Court has jurisdiction to appoint such a Commission. The Commission will provide an efficient forum to study whether the media may cover events in Minnesota courts.

II. THIS COURT HAS THE NECESSARY POWER TO APPOINT A COMMISSION.

It cannot be disputed that petitioners in this case have the right to petition for a modification of Canon 3A(7) of the Minnesota Code of Judicial Conduct, nor can it be disputed that the Supreme Court of Minnesota is the proper body to consider such a petition.

17 Minnesota law vests the Minnesota Supreme Court with the 18 power to adopt rules of practice and procedure for 19 Minnesota's courts. Pursuant to Minn.Stat. §§480.051 and 20 480.059, the Supreme Court of Minnesota has "...the power to 21 regulate the pleadings, practice, procedure and the forms 22 thereof in civil actions in all courts of this state, other 23 than the probate courts... " and "... in criminal actions in 24 all courts of this state..." The Supreme Court specifically 25 noted that it had such power in Smith v. Valentine, 19 Minn.

452 (1873). Aside from an opinion of the state Attorney General, interpreting the right of municipal courts to adopt rules not in conflict with the Supreme Court's rules, Op. Atty. Gen. 306A, the power of the Supreme Court to adopt rules for all courts of this state has never been questioned or challenged.

Minnesota law also provides a means by which changes can be made to existing rules of practice and procedure in the district, county and county municipal courts. Minn.Stat. §480.054 provides that any person can file a petition with the Supreme Court "specifying their suggestions concerning any existing or proposed rule and request a hearing thereon." The Supreme Court must grant a hearing within six months of the filing of the petition if the petitioner is one of the judges' associations and may grant a hearing if the petitioner is not a judges' association.

The Minnesota Code of Judicial Conduct, adopted by the Supreme Court in 1974, is a set of provisions which, among other things, regulates the practice and procedure in the state's courts. The Supreme Court had the statutory power to adopt this Code, and the Supreme Court has the statutory power to amend it. At the same time, the petitioners in this case have a statutory right to petition the Supreme Court suggesting changes in that Code.

Whether to adopt a proposed change in a rule of practice or 1 procedure is strictly a decision for the Supreme Court, 2 although the bench and bar may have some input into the 3 Supreme Court's decision. Minn.Stat. §480.054 states that "before any rule for the district or municipal courts is 5 adopted, the Supreme Court shall distribute copies of the proposed rule to the bench and bar of the state for their 7 consideration and suggestions and give due consideration to 8 such suggestions as they may submit..." 9

Copies of the petitioners' modification to Canon 3A(7) have already been distributed to various legal and judicial groups in the state, including the Minnesota State Bar Association, the District Court Judges Association, the Municipal Court Judges Association, the County Court Judges Association, and the Minnesota Trial Lawyers Association. All of these groups will have an opportunity to present their comments and suggestions to the Commission which the Supreme Court proposes to appoint to study. Should this Court desire, those parties may also appear before it after the Commission renders its report.

III. THE PROPOSED COMMISSION AND ITS RULES OF PRACTICE PROVIDE AN EFFICIENT MEANS TO STUDY THE USE OF BROADCAST AND PHOTOGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT IN MINNESOTA'S COURTS.

This Court's Order to Show Cause dated July 14, 1981, in proposing the appointment of a three-member Commission and proposing to establish rules of practice before that Commission, presents the most expeditious, efficient and economic way of studying the issue of access of cameras and broadcast technology to the Minnesota courts.

A. The Appointment of the Proposed Commission Will Expedite This Court's Study of The Relevant Issues.

9 As previously stated, it is within the inherent power of the 10 Supreme Court to grant or deny the petition seeking an 11 amendment of Canon 3A(7). However, it would be burdensome to 12 this Court to ask it to review the literature now being 13 developed on the question of technological access to the 14 courts, and it would be exceedingly time consuming for the 15 entire Court to hear the testimony of those witnesses who may 16 have evidence to present to a factfinder.

18 The three-member Commission as proposed by the Supreme Court 19 will be able to expend the time necessary for a full airing of 20 the views of those people interested in the issues raised by 21 this petition. The Commissioners have no personal interest 22 or stake in the matter, and will not be responsible for the 23 final decision. Their study will be thoughtful and 24 extensive.

At the same time, the Minnesota Supreme Court does not 1 abdicate its authority by appointing the Commission. The 2 proposed rules of practice specifically provide for the 3 preparation of findings and recommendations by the 4 Commission. Presuming that the parties will have access to 5 the Supreme Court at a hearing on those findings and 6 recommendations, the Court will be fully apprised of the 7 matters aired during the hearing, will receive input from 8 interested parties, and will be able to make its decision / 9 based on its review of those findings and recommendations. 10

B. The Proposed Rules of Practice Provide For An Efficient Determination of This Question, And Should Be Adopted.

The proposed rules of practice appended to the Order to Show Cause dated July 14, 1981 are meant to secure the "just, speedy and inexpensive determination" of the issues involved in the petition now filed before this Court.

1. Rule 4-Establishment of an Agenda.

Rule 4 requires a conference of the Commission and all interested parties to establish a final agenda and witness list prior to the Commission hearings. Such a conference will significantly decrease the actual time involved in hearings, will limit the redundancy of evidence presented to the Commission and will insure the full participation and preparation by all parties. Conflicts will be resolved prior to the hearing, since there is a right to an immediate 1 appeal. The efficiency of this process is obvious. 2 3 2. Rule 5-Expenses of the Commission. 4 The creation of a budget to be funded by the petitioners is 5 unusual. However, in the context of the other proposed rules 6 of practice, Rule 5 will assure that this budget is 7 economically used. An appropriate sum will first be reserved 8 to pay for those expenses which the Commission believes are 9 necessary to an adequate study of this matter. Thus, the 10 public interest aspect of the petition now before the Court 11 will be fully aired. Presuming that those expenses are 12 reserved at the time of the establishment of a final agenda, 13 available funds will be efficiently used to insure that 14 necessary testimony is brought before the Commission. 15 16

If petitioners and the opponents of this petition do not believe that the issues are fully explored through the witnesses called by the Commission, they both have access to equal resources. Thus, a fair and equitable exploration of the issues is contemplated. And, since the funds available are limited, an economical presentation of evidence is assured. There will be no spiraling escalation of expenses or the number of witnesses to be presented to the Commission.

3. Rule 6-Hearing Before the Commission. 1 Rule 6 is designed to obtain the most complete record of the 2 Commission hearing without the artificial constraints of the 3 normal evidentiary rules. Presuming that testimony is 4 relevant, its foundation, or the lack of foundation, will go 5 to the question of the weight to be given to the evidence. 6 Thus, it may be possible for witnesses in other locations to 7 present testimony by affidavit or electronic means. 8 Although those witnesses might not be cross-examined, their 9 testimony will be helpful to the Commission, although the 10 lack of legal foundation will not make the evidence overly 11 powerful. Again the rule contemplates a relatively informal 12 presentation, with disputes quickly resolved by immediate 13 access to the Court. 14

IV. CONCLUSION.

The establishment of a Commission to study the issues raised by the petition now before this Court is well within the powers held by it. The Commission will carry out a thoughtful and thorough review of the issues. Interested parties will have the ability to fully describe their positions. The public will benefit from these discussions, and public interest arguments will be aired as well.

The result will be a set of findings which will be molded from input from all parties, brough forth during an efficient and
